CHRISTMAS at Arendahl

HWY 30 praise team, Norwegian treats headline festive celebration

PETERSON —

On the first or second Sunday in December, Arendahl Lutheran Church members are in Christmas celebration mode. From the country church basement wafts aromas of the potluck and thoughts of all the baked goodies. Upstairs in the turn-of-the-20th-century sanctuary, Christmas songs, hymns and carols are led by the local rural singing group, HWY 30, whose members are almost all attendees at Arendahl Lutheran.

Arendahl Lutheran is part of a four-point parish, sharing a pastor with three other local churches. Each year, the church has a musical Christmas service followed by an abundant potluck and Norwegian treats. An offering is taken towards hunger relief, and a Christmas tree has ornaments showing agriculture items and other gifts that can be sent to those in need overseas through Lutheran World Relief's Gifts of Love program. The day is one of the highlight events of the year for the church.

"As a small congregation, we have found things that work well for our group, and Christmas at Arendahl is one," said congregation member Willa Holger. "We just have really special events that work well for us."

A gift tree to benefit individuals through Lutheran World Relief stands in the sanctuary Nov. 12 at Arendahl Lutheran Church near Peterson. The donations for the predominantly agriculture-related gifts as well as an offering towards hunger relief are part of Christmas at Arendahl Lutheran.

Arendahl

This December, Holger, who lives on the farm where Arendahl Lutheran was started by Norwegian settlers in 1856, will play a special part in the service. Holger is the pianist for HWY 30.

HWY 30 consists of Holger, as well as Barb Morrison, Beth Vitse, and Jo Anne and Keith Agrimson. The group of predominantly rural musicians has changed in membership over the years, but overall, HWY 30 has been together since 2004. They sing at the Christmas service yearly. In addition to Christmas at Arendahl Lutheran and some regular Sunday services, the group sings at around four or five events a year including weddings, funerals, baptisms and town celebrations. The group sings sacred songs of every genre as well as other music.

This year, a few of the songs they plan to sing at Christmas include "Still, Still, Still," "Christmas Lullaby," "Straw Carol" and "Shout! Sing Hallelujah!"

"(When) you are singing, oftentimes it's a straight Bible verse," Jo Anne said. "It's like that spark goes into people, and they maybe think of God's word in a different way. ... Or it brings back some memory."

Holger agreed. "It helps us focus on why we're here, what the church is all about," she said. "Many times, there's Jesus' words (in the lyrics), which are good to keep at the forefront of my mind."

The group practices weekly as they are able. Keith is a farmer, so fall harvest season means he sometimes has to miss. The group begins preparing their Christmas program months before December.

"We start earlier than the stores," Holger said.

The decision-making progress to choose the content of the program is casual, Holger and Jo Anne said. Generally, the finished program is a blending of what everyone wants to sing, what they have not sung in a while, and which songs go well together for a blend of styles and tempos.

It always comes together, and it makes a good program, but it's chaotic," Jo Anne said. "Everybody has an opinion on what to sing and what not to sing." Though the group takes their music and its meaning seriously, they also like to have fun. "My husband, who does not sing in this group, has threatened to come and time how much we really practice and how much we laugh," Holger said. Some years, HWY 30 invites others to join the group for the Christmas service, but this year, at the celebration Dec. 7, the group will sing alone as well as alongside the congregation.

"I love when I am singing, I can look out and see people are just so much enjoying it," Jo Anne said. "Especially when we lead hymns that the congregation can sing with. There are some people who love to sing but just would never get up in front. ... You can just see how joyful it is for them to come together and have this special event." As the service wraps up, the congregation and any guests troop to the basement of the church that was built in 1899 for the feast. There, Shari Boyum, a member of the church for 56 years, has been making sure the food preparations are underway. She and other members also decorate the church for Christmas.

We just work together; ... we get along really well," she said. "Everybody knows, 'Well, they're going to be bringing that, and they (someone else) are going to be bringing that.'" All the parishioners have brought something to share for the smorgasbord. A meal of barbecue sandwiches and salads are the precursor for the Christmas treats. Some specialty items include rømmegrøt, sweet soup, lefse, sandbakkels, rosettes, krumkake, pizzelles, nut breads and sometimes homemade caramel or fudge. "Each person kind of has their specialty," Holger said. The meal is enjoyed around round tables, purchased specifically to make conversation easier. "It's an enjoyable day," Boyum said. "We're here in church until sometimes 3 o'clock." The fellowship shared is not something that occurs just at Christmas time. Jo Anne, Holger and Boyum said every Sunday has lots of visiting, and often times, a group goes to get lunch together after the service.

North Prairie-Arendahl Sunday School's Christmas program "Born to Bring Us Joy" included songs, bells and reminders of God's love as seen in the symbols and decorations of Christmas. The following students sang and rang out joy: Allison & Jameson Brown; Brantly Burt; Gemma, Jack & Rex Charlebois; Nora Eide; Brooks & Reid Kimball; Bailey, Paisley & Riley Lorenz; Tatum & Tyson Vitse.

Thank you to Cora Mayer for reading the Christmas story, to Allison Brown for her solos, to Heidi Gerry for accompanying and leading the bells, Stella Charlebois for the bulletin design and Justin Brown for building the stable. Thanks always to Anita Brown for assisting and serving snacks and to the parents for all you do to help these children learn about Jesus and His love.
